Death Investigation Ruled Murder / Suicide

UPDATE

Since the discovery on May 7, 2012 of the shooting deaths of Amy Freeman Burton and her 13 year-old daughter Ainsley Burton, Pleasanton police investigators have worked extensively to determine the facts leading up to the shootings. Investigators have determined that Amy Freeman-Burton shot and killed her daughter, Ainsley Freeman, and then shot and killed herself. This was determined by a myriad of evidence, including physical and forensic evidence. We are confident based on the evidence there were no other people involved in this incident.

Resulting from an earlier request for an interview, there is press conference scheduled for 2:00 pm for those members of the media who would like to attend. Although I will gladly entertain questions, the information contained in this release is the only new information and will be the extent of the press conference.
