WHERE: Pleasanton Library, Large Conference Room

                    Pleasanton, CA

WHEN: Saturday, August 27, 2016
                    1 – 5 p.m.

WHY: Pleasanton Library's Literacy Program needs volunteer tutors to help adults with English skills. You may volunteer to work one-on-one with a student, and/or assist in our Group Literacy Classes.

                    The Literacy Program has the books and materials; you bring the energy and creativity. We will help you develop teaching skills, craft curriculum, and gain experience, enriching your resume all the while helping nice, appreciative people.

                    What it means to be a tutor:
                    You should be at least 18 years old, and fluent in American English.
                    You should be able to devote a consistent hour or two weekly to your student for a minimum of one semester. You can be innovative—and have fun.

This session will introduce interested individuals to the literacy program and provide an orientation on teaching resources, lesson planning and teaching techniques. The only prerequisite is a desire to help others learn English.
