Dear Ms. Wallis,

I received a notice in the mail regarding plans for an 18 inch x 10 foot illuminated sign on the building occupied by QASource at the corner of Ray Street and Tessa Place. I was not familiar with the term 'halo-illuminated', so I looked it up, and found that these type of signs are typically used for banks, restaurants, grocery stores; service businesses that are open to the public.

Not only do I think that an illuminated sign is inappropriate for our neighborhood, the size is also a problem for me. All of the businesses that occupy Ray Street have smaller, wooded signs that compliment our historic downtown neighborhood.

The notice did not indicate where the sign would be placed, however, past businesses have had signs on the Tessa Place side of the building, and not the Ray Street side of the building. This has always confused me, since the address of the building and the front entrance to the building is at 73 Ray Street.

I am a homeowner in this charming neighborhood, and I am adamantly against this sign.

Thank you for you consideration.
Sincerely,
Carla Graci

Hi Ms. wallis,

We are residents in the Tessa Place neighborhood and oppose to the installation of the LED illuminated signage proposal by QASource.

Since this business is located in a residential area, it will not add to the appeal of the neighborhood. In addition, none of the other businesses located along Ray Street have illuminated signage.

Your understanding is greatly appreciated.

Regards,
Michael and Audrey Gould
